

Lessons From David's Last Words

- A. Having spent the last week learning lessons from the life of David, let's examine his last words.
B. 1 Chronicles 28-29 provides a window into what was on the mind of this man after God's own heart.

- (28:1-3) - I probably _____ be able to accomplish everything I have in my heart to accomplish
- (28:4) - the most important opportunity I have during my time on this earth is to _____ my will with God's will
- (28:5-8) - the most important legacy I can leave is a foundation of _____ for the coming generation
- (28:9a) - a legacy of faith is priceless, but the time comes when I must make my faith my _____
- (28:9b) - God deserves and demands my whole heart and my willing mind, but whom I will serve during my time on this earth is my _____
- (28:9c) - no matter who I am, I can't _____ anything from God
- (28:9d) - if I seek him, God is a source of wonderful _____
- (28:9e) - if I forsake him, God is a terrifying _____
- (28:10a) - I must be _____ with my time and wisely seek to accomplish his will for my life
- (28:10b) - "head knowledge" and lip-service are no substitute for taking _____ when God calls me to act
- (28:11-19) - God-glorifying work accords with the God-given _____
- (28:20-21) - when we build our lives on the rock of God's revelation, we are not building _____
- (29:1-9) - there is great joy to be found in _____ willingly to the glory of God
- (29:10-19) - the LORD is the sovereign _____ over time, space, and all that fills them
- (29:20-30) - if we have been a _____ to God and to others, our time on earth will have been well-spent